

Vintage Shopping Guide

Join the VSG e-list!
Receive trend report, articles,
& interviews! Be in the know!

Home Vintage Stores Fashion Exhibits Vintage Patterns Article Archives Events Calendar VSG Blog Contact

Clothing Warehouse in NoLita

Comment Form

March 21, 2009

It's not all doom and gloom in this economy! At least one new store has found its way through the wreckage and popped up in NoLita's hip neighborhood in NYC. The Clothing Warehouse, located at 8 Prince Street btw Bowery and Elizabeth, offers both mens and ladies casual apparel and accessories ranging from screen tees to leather bomber jackets, sunnies to cowboy boots.

Mo Bunnel, one of the owners, tells me they completely renovated the space in 14 days in time for the grand opening this weekend March 21st. He looks weary, but nothing a shot of java won't fix! And the store looks amazing! There is lots of space and plenty of light streaming into this shop. The garments are nicely organized and not over crowded, and have price tags that go easy on your wallet. There is also a basement filled with higher ended treasures available by appointment only.

The Clothing Warehouse is not a newbie to the vintage retail game. No, this new store will mark their 7th retail location! And they've already started scouting for their next hot spot. Sp be one of the first to hit this new shop this weekend. It's sure to become one of your regular hives.

*You do the Shopping.
We do the Research.*

Our Tours:

- Vintage Boutique
- Chic Boutique
- Teen Fashion & Fun

1-800-619-2795
shop-NYctours.com

Other Cool Blogs

A Dress A Day
Accessories of Old Blog
Couture Allure
Diary of A Mad Fashionista

Fashion Runway
Jeanne Suica
LuLu's Vintage Blog
The DebLog
The Goods!